After 2 Months, Phones Jingle Again In Portsmouth

PORTSMOUTH (AP)—Long-dead telephones played a welcome yuletide "jingle bells" in Portsmouth today.

Exactly two months and nine hours after a strike-inspired shutdown blacked out all telephone service in Scioto County (population 90,000), emergency service was restored Sunday morning in a surprise move by the Ohio Consolidated Telephone Co.

Four auto-loads of telephone workers came into Portsmouth about 7 a. m. and about an hour later service was restored. The company would not say from whence the workers came.

A company official said the ten long distance operators, the three maintenance men and several company officials in the group would eat and sleep in the exchange building "until all danger of trouble is past."

The blackout in neither the Sciotoville nor the New Boston exchanges was affected by Sunday's service restoration at the Portsmouth exchange. Neither has an automatic dial operation as does Portsmouth.

A HEARING was scheduled before the State Utilities Commission in Columbus today in which Ohio Consolidated was to "show cause" why it should not be ordered to restore emergency telephone service in all of Scioto County.

Portsmouth city officials were caught off guard but immediately turned the area around the firm's Portsmouth exchange into an armed camp. All was quiet. No pickets were in sight.

The entire city appeared happy and relieved that emergency telephone service was available, but at the same time it appeared apprehensive.

Hungary Seen Calming As Strikes End

BUDAPEST (AP)—The Hungarian workers' sitdown strike appeared to be ended today in Budapest and the provinces. Lack of coal and power still hampered production.

Work resumed at the Bejolanis electrical equipment plant, center of the new wave of slowdowns and sitdowns last week protesting the arrest of two leaders of the Budapest Central Workers' Council.

The two labor leaders, Sandor Racz and Sandor Bari, have not been released by the Soviet-supported government of Premier Janos Kadar. But the threat of hunger and winter cold appeared to have broken the strike.

Along with the back-to-work movement, reports of widespread guerrilla activities in the Hungarian countryside and large-scale desertions by Russian troops generally were discounted in Budapest.

But most Western observers agreed that the Russians have lost a satellite, and that Hungary will never slip back into the subservience to Moscow which characterized the previous Stalinist regime.

A reliable Hungarian informant said there were no major Russian military or political figures in Hungary "for the time being."

Posters appeared on Budapest walls today demanding that Polish troops take over the occupation of Hungary "in a spirit and on the grounds of the Warsaw agreement."

Boy, 13, Injured By Exploding Shell

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP)—John Sell, 13, was critically injured Sunday when a bullet, lying in an ash tray, exploded as he and a friend threw lighted matches on it. Flying pieces of metal pierced his jugular vein and windpipe.

Investigators said the boy found the bullet in a trash heap and took it with him to the home of a friend.

The second boy, Edgar J. Allen, also 13, was unhurt.

Red China Expected To Be Major Topic During Conference

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP)—President Eisenhower brought Prime Minister Nehru of India to his farm home here today for an overnight stay and intimate private talks on matters of concern to the two nations.

Their motorcade of nine cars arrived shortly before 11 a. m. after two hours of leisurely driving from Washington, 80 miles away.

The President and the visiting Indian leader were in the lead car, a black limousine. The other cars carried secret service agents, aides and newsmen.

The weather was sunny and mild, "typical Eisenhower weather," as one old-time resident put it.

The presidential party stopped briefly at the gates of the Eisenhower farm to permit photographers to take pictures.

The motorcade then swept into the grounds.

Nehru and the President are remaining here overnight so they may talk over the world situation away from the protocol and social obligations of the capital.

THEIR BASIC aim is the achievement of closer relations and better understanding between the United States and India, not the working out of specific agreements.

Nehru, who arrived in Washington Sunday spent the night at Blair House, the government's guest residence.

Eisenhower personally called to pick up the Indian leader for the trip to Gettysburg.

Eisenhower was smiling broadly as he alighted from the automobile at Blair House, across Pennsylvania Avenue from the White House, to greet his guest.

"Good morning, your excellency," Eisenhower said.

Nehru, wearing a heavy brown tweed coat and his white Gandhi hat, shook hands vigorously.

Egypt Seen Moving Closer To Ties With Soviet Bloc

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Foreign News Analyst
PARIS (AP)—Egypt, at the moment the acknowledged leader of the Arab world, is walking into a trap of her own making.

Events of the past two years climaxed by the recent hostilities, are pushing Egypt ever closer to unwelcome ties with the Soviet Union and the Communist bloc.

A system of political trade, at which the Russians have become expert, threatened to chain Egypt to policies of the Red bloc. She already has gone dangerously far along the road.

Egypt's current policies, hardened by the British-French-Israeli attack, seem to have closed off for the time being any readily accessible avenues of rescue from the West. For the moment, only President Nasser has the power to change the direction of Egypt's course. And he himself in a sense is a prisoner of his own policy.

The Russians are patiently fashioning a chain with economic links. Egypt's trade with the East is carried on through a series of said that the alert "seems to be in the postponement stage now."

Gov. Frank J. Lausche repeatedly has assured the firm he would call out the National Guard on a moment's notice if the Portsmouth situation gets out of hand.

During the blackout, the people of Portsmouth depended largely on a makeshift system of radio communications for emergency needs.

Exchanges in the other 23 Ohio counties hit by a strike of some 600 Communications Workers of America members which began last July 15 have been operating with the help of supervisors.

WHEN THE company restored service, the Portsmouth police, under Acting Chief Albert D. Bailey, quickly invoked a new emergency mobilization system.

All streets and alleys in a four-square block area round the Portsmouth exchange in the city's hilltop area were barricaded.

All persons were barred from the area unless they reside there or have vital business to transact within its borders.

Ohio Consolidated and the CWA are still deadlocked over the question of a union shop and other contract disputes holding up settlement for a new contract.

A threat to the emergency protection system came about noon today when a Portsmouth attorney and property owner within the restricted area around the plant filed a taxpayer's suit seeking an injunction to prohibit police from erecting the barricades which seal off the exchange area.

Harry Herdman contended the barricades violate his constitutional rights of peaceful assembly on his property.

Judge William Smith of Scioto County common pleas court said he will probably rule on the injunction request Tuesday.

Syrian Aide Denies Red Penetration

NEW YORK (AP)—The Syrian ambassador to the United States says reports of Soviet penetration into his country are "unfounded" but that "colonial Western policy is pushing the Arab people in that direction."

Dr. Farid Zeineddine said Syria is strictly neutral in the Mideast situation.

Syria bought arms from Czechoslovakia, he said, "because we were unable to buy them elsewhere." He added:

"We would like to see the Mideast return to normal in every way. But to have oil flow in one direction while there is danger blood may flow in the Mideast is something else."

2 Election Probe Witnesses Gone

YOUNGSTOWN (AP)—Two of 11 persons subpoenaed to appear before the election board today in a vote fraud investigation have disappeared, sheriff's deputies said.

A board spokesman said every effort would be made to locate the pair—Virginia Gilbert and Ida Mae Faletti. A recount revealed "short pencilling" on 75 to 100 ballots in one precinct.

two-way agreements which amount in the long run, to barter.

These bilateral deals are a form of political trade used by the Russians in attempts to drive the West out of certain markets. The pressure on Egypt is becoming enormous now.

The Communist bloc has become almost the only supplier for Egypt and at the same time an intermediary for the Western goods Egypt needs. The Russians seem to be forced to gear her economy to the East bloc. Then the strong political infiltration will begin.

Controlling all propaganda outlets, Nasser's government is keeping the effects of the recent invasion on the economy well hidden from the Egyptian people.

On the surface in Cairo, nothing seems wrong. There are no shortages. Domestic trade seems to be flourishing. But factories are running out of stocks and wholesalers out of supplies. As the situation progresses, the Egyptian consumer's standard will go down because of low purchasing power.

In such competitions, youngsters race against the clock and selected highways are left open to give them a chance to cut loose with a minimum amount of hazard involved. The occupants of the other car involved are being questioned.

It's True—Ike's Election Came Only This Afternoon

COLUMBUS (AP)—Ohio's electoral college today cast its 25 votes for the reelection of President Dwight D. Eisenhower and Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

Former Gov. Myers V. Cooper was chairman for the forenoon and afternoon ceremonies in the Ohio House of Representatives. The Cincinnati session in 1952 when Ohio's big bloc of votes went to Republican Eisenhower and Nixon.

Judge William L. Hart, 89, of Alliance, swore in electors as his last official act before expiration of his term as a member of the Ohio Supreme Court.

The quadrennial ceremonies are similar to those of other electoral colleges in the various states. They are part of the complicated process of electing the nation's top executives.

Because Republicans voted in the majority in the Nov. 6 election, the party won all of Ohio's electoral votes under an all-or-nothing system. Ohio has an electoral vote for each of her 23 congressmen and two senators.

Electors who marked presidential ballots in the Ohio election actually selected electoral college members pledged to standard bearers of their party. Buckeye electors are duty bound to vote for their party nominees.

Democratic Gov. Frank J. Lausche, who becomes a U. S. senator next month, addressed the morning meeting at which routine business will be transacted. Actual voting took place this afternoon.

Certificates of ascertainment based on the vote will go to Washington. Ohio Secretary of State Ted W. Brown and U. S. District Judge Mel G. Underwood of Columbus. Presentation of the various state certificates to a joint session of Congress next month will complete the Eisenhower-Nixon re-election.

As a total of 531 members of the electoral college throughout the nation cast their votes today, Eisenhower 35,575,420; Stevenson 26,033,066, with Rhode Island's vote still unofficial.

The total popular vote as tabulated by the Associated Press was Eisenhower 35,575,420; Stevenson 26,033,066, with Rhode Island's vote still unofficial.

A Soviet note sent the State Department via the U. S. Embassy in Moscow demanded punishment for those responsible and that steps be taken to "prevent future violations of the state frontiers of the U.S.S.R. by American aircraft."

U. S. Air Force officials in Japan, where B-57s have been stationed since last January, said they had no knowledge of any such flight. The State Department withheld comment until the note could be studied further.

The note said the three American planes flew over the area of the big Siberian naval base Dec. 11 in the early afternoon.

"Fine weather and good visibility prevailed in the area, precluding the possibility that the pilots lost their way," the note declared. It contended the flight "can be regarded only as a premeditated action of the U. S. military authorities with obvious reconnaissance purposes."

The note gave no indication of any action taken by Soviet defense forces against the planes. But it concluded that "in the event of a recurrence, responsibility for the consequences of such violations will rest squarely on the government of the U.S.A."

Kremlin Chiefs, Top Poles Confer

MOSCOW (AP)—Defense Minister Georgi Zhukov and Foreign Minister Dmitri Shepilov flew to Warsaw today to work out the "legal status" of Soviet troops deployed in Polish territory.

The talks may set a new pattern for the Soviet Union's relationship with its East European satellites.

The Polish Communist Party's "nationalist" boss, Wladyslaw Gomułka, in recent talks with Soviet leaders in Moscow, agreed to let Russian soldiers remain.

An announcement after the Moscow talks said the two governments would negotiate later concerning the "strength and composition of the troops."

There have been reports recently of Polish workers demanding the complete withdrawal of Soviet troops. However, the Gomułka regime wants to keep the Russian soldiers in Poland because they insure Polish retention of territory taken from Germany after World War II.

THE SUDDEN departure of Zhukov and Shepilov took Western observers by surprise. Few had expected such rapid implementation of Gomułka's Moscow negotiations. But this could have been speeded up by the widespread unrest reported in Poland recently.

The importance of the Warsaw talks was underlined by the Kremlin's sending two such leading ministers to the Polish capital. They have the delicate job of keeping the restless Poles from following Hungary's lead into revolt while at the same time making sure that the Soviet line of communications with its troops in East Germany is safeguarded.

The trip also threw in doubt the meeting of the Central Committee of the Soviet Communist Party, which most Westerners in Moscow had believed would be held this week.

Both Zhukov and Shepilov are candidate members of the party's all-powerful Presidium, and it seemed unlikely the committee would meet without them.

There has been no announcement of the committee meeting and none was expected until the session was over.

From what the Soviet press has been talking about most in recent weeks, observers here believe the committee's agenda included:

1. The recent events in Hungary, Poland and Yugoslavia and their effect on the process of de-Stalinization. A decision on whether to tighten or relax the Kremlin's grip on the satellites could stem from the discussion.

2. Possible changes in the Moscow leadership.

3. Discussions of the perennial housing shortage have appeared frequently of late in the Soviet press.

4. The old problem of heavy industry and arms production vs. goods to make life easier, such as refrigerators and TV sets.

Allies Leaving Egypt Rapidly

British Take Parting Stab At Guerrillas

PORT SAID, Egypt (AP)—The British-French forces have begun the last phase of their withdrawal from Egypt after a tank-supported attack on guerrillas in retaliation for the ambush slaying of a British officer.

The deadline for the final pull-out was not announced. U. N. sources indicated it might be Tuesday or Wednesday. But Lt. Gen. Sir Hugh Stockwell, commander of the British-French task force, implied some of the Allied troops might still be on hand Thursday behind the barbed wire ringing their narrow beachhead along Port Said's harbor front.

Stockwell said he had agreed to a U. N. request to let 350 armed Egyptian police enter Port Said Tuesday and 350 more two days later "if the first contingent behaves itself."

Egypt planned to have more than 1,000 black-uniformed police with rifles maintain order in the city after the British-French evacuation.

After the fighting Sunday the British withdrew behind the four miles of barbed wire that bounds their two-block-wide beachhead.

THE FRENCH were preparing to quit Port Fuad, across the harbor. The U. N. police patrol maintained order throughout the rest of the city.

British and French units staged their power drive against the guerrillas by moonlight late Saturday night and early Sunday through Port Said's dark streets and twisting alleys. The attack was launched after a British officer on patrol duty was killed by a grenade hurled from ambush.

Tanks rumbled through the streets and troops combed the alleys, firing at the elusive guerrillas during the 3½-hour battle. Bullets zoomed over rooftops and red streaks from tracer ammunition laced the sky. British officers said the Allied forces "killed some Egyptians—we're not sure of the number," and captured 10 men.

Shooting Ends Family Row On S. Scioto St.

Self-Defense Claimed Following Struggle; Lie Tests Planned

A family quarrel Saturday midnight ended in the fatal shooting of a local man.

Calvin C. Haddox, 32, of 721 S. Scioto St. was shot in the back following a fight with his brother-in-law, Paul Fredrick Stevens, 29. The killing was at the Stevens residence, 731 S. Scioto St.

Haddox was killed after attacking Stevens with a knife, police were told. Stevens suffered cuts on the left cheek and ear and on the neck.

Stevens walked into the police station about midnight and told of the killing Sgt. Leroy Hawks and Patrolman Don Adams found Haddox's body. The victim, married to Stevens' sister, Betty, was the father of six children.

STEVENS is being held in the county jail awaiting further investigation by city police and the London Bureau of Criminal Investigation.

No formal charges have yet been filed against Stevens. Legal action in the case will be determined after investigation by Prosecutor William Ammer.

According to Stevens' statement made to local police, Haddox, who allegedly had been drinking, came to the Stevens home looking for his wife's sister, Mary Stevens. Besides Stevens, the only other person in the house was Mrs. Eva Hamp.

Stevens said he told Haddox his sister was not in the house. Stevens said he offered to let Haddox search the house for the girl. He said that Haddox then suddenly grabbed him by the throat. Stevens said he struck Haddox, knocking him to the floor. Getting to his feet, Haddox reportedly grabbed a chair which he swung at Stevens, who ducked.

At this point, Haddox, according to Stevens, grabbed him by the hair, at the same time pulling a knife which he started swinging. Stevens said the blade grazed his cheek and cut his ear and neck.

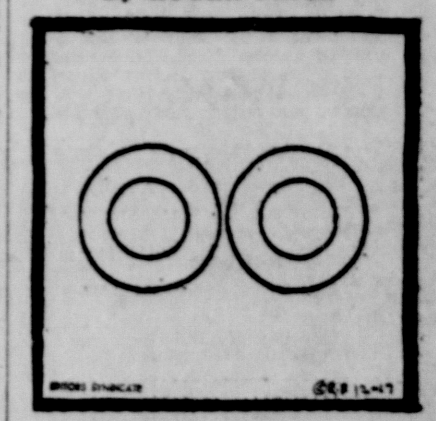

STEPPING BACK, Stevens said he reached behind a nearby archway and picked up a .22 caliber rifle.

Upon seeing the gun, Stevens said, Haddox made a dash for the kitchen door. Stevens fired at the running man just as he was going out the door.

While the struggle was in progress between the two men, Mrs. Hamp stated she attempted to call the police, but that she was unable to reach an operator.

In winding up his story of what happened, Stevens said that he and Mrs. Hamp, planning on driving to the police station to report the incident, found Haddox's body as they walked out the front door of the house. The and Eisenhower escorted him to the limousine.

They climbed in, posed briefly in the back seat for photographers, then sped away.

About 200 spectators gathered across the street to witness the departure.

Additional automobiles, carrying secret servicemen, reporters, photographers and newsreel cameras followed the car carrying Eisenhower and Nehru.

Nehru, who recently entertained Premier Chou En-Lai of Red China, was expected to tell the President that Chou sincerely wants to clear away Washington-Peking antagonisms.

NEHRU HIMSELF would like the United States to accept Communist China in the United Nations and eventually recognize it.

In a talk to fellow countrymen at the Indian Embassy Sunday night, Nehru said Chou had received a warm welcome in India, and he added:

"If the President of the United States were to come to India, and I hope he will, we will give him an equally great welcome."

Nehru described India's role in international affairs as being that of a bridge between nations with conflicting interests. Referring to his policy of nonalignment with either of the great power blocs, he said, "We do not sit on the fence but we reserve the right to act independently."

Powered Flight Event Is Recalled

KILL DEVIL HILLS, N. C. (AP)—The evolution of the airplane came into sharp focus on these outer banks today as jet planes capable of exceeding the speed of sound flew over the same stretch of Sandy Beach where the Wright brothers recorded their first powered flight.

The brief ceremonies at the Wright Memorial Monument here featured the flyover by about 40 modern jets at 10:37 a. m.—53 years to the minute that the Wrights made their first takeoff.

On that flight, Orville watched his brother Wilbur travel 120 feet in 12 seconds.

Sgt. Hawks was assisted in his investigation by the sheriff's department and two representatives from the London Prison Farm Bureau of Investigation. The investigation was being continued today.

Both Stevens and Mrs. Hamp agreed to submit to a lie-detector test which was scheduled at the London Prison farm today. Police transferred Stevens to the county jail and Mrs. Hamp was released after being questioned.

The victim of the shooting was born in Ross County on Aug. 18, 1924, a son of William and Matilda Detty Haddox. He was a veteran of World War II.

He is survived by his wife, Betty Jane Stevens Haddox and six children, Betty Lou 12, Ruth Ann, 11, William Calvin, 8, Rosemarie, 5, Ernest Charles, 2, and Patricia Lynn, 1. Another child is expected in February.

The family had lived in Portsmouth, coming to Circleville about a week ago.

OTHER SURVIVORS are as follows:

Six brothers, Clarence, London-derry, Benjamin, Portsmouth, Clifford and Ernest, Columbus, and Herbert, and Charles, Circleville; two sisters, Mrs. Ethel Hiles, Lancaster, and Mrs. Ruth Schwalbacher, Circleville.

Funeral services will be held Wednesday at 10:30 a. m. in the Defenbaugh Funeral Home, with the Rev. Richard Humble officiating. Burial will be in Forest Cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home beginning 2 p. m. Tuesday.

Carborundum Co. To Build Plant At Van Wert

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y. (AP)—The Carborundum Co. today announced that it will build a new, multi-million dollar plant in Van Wert, Ohio, for the manufacture of small abrasive wheels.

Clinton F. Robinson, president of the company, said the new plant was part of Carborundum's $30 million modernization and expansion program for 1957-58.

The company did not disclose the exact cost.

The new plant is expected to employ from 200 to 350 workers.

It will manufacture small vitrified abrasive wheels up to 14 inches in diameter and adapted to automatic production methods.

The new plant is scheduled for completion late next year and for full operation by the end of 1958.

The Van Wert plant will be the second company plant in Ohio. The other is at Logan.

Grandma Doing Yule Shonlifting

PORTSMOUTH (AP)—A gray-haired grandmother and two other women have been arrested here in what police described as the largest shonlifting operation in Portsmouth's history.

Police identified the three as Mrs. Nell Williams, 71, the grandmother; her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Iva Williams, mother of five children, and Mrs. Ernestine Arnett, 27, mother of two children. All three are from Salsyville, Ky.

Officials said Mrs. Arnett admitted the three stole some 160 articles during the Christmas shopping rush. The articles were found in bus station lockers. They ranged from shoe laces to a bathroom scale.

Jewelry Company Owner Robbed

BURBANK, Calif. (AP)—Two gunmen abducted a New York jewelry company owner as he left an airport Sunday night, police said, and robbed him of $300,000 in cut diamonds and emeralds.

Police said David Gurfin, 49, told them he was forced to drive a car at gunpoint through this Los Angeles suburb while one of the holdup men ransacked his briefcase seeking two envelopes containing the gems.

Officials said Gurfin, owner of the David Gurfin Jewelry Co., had arrived at Burbank Airport about 10:10 p. m. When he placed his bags in a rented car at the airport the men got in from each side, Gurfin told police.

UN Hearing Gripe By British, French

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—Britain and France pressed complaints in the U. N. today that Egypt is mistreating their citizens with arrests, deportation and seizure of property.

The two partners in the October-November invasion of the Suez Canal called a private meeting of 16 non-Communist European U. N. delegations to explain their case against Egypt apparently in anticipation of bringing it before the General Assembly.

A French spokesman said this afternoon's Assembly session "very likely" would be devoted to the charges against Egypt.

France has circulated a resolution asking Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold to send observers or take other measures to induce Egypt to stop mistreating British and French nationals. Israel has also complained of Egypt's treatment of Jews since the Israelis invaded Sinai Oct. 29.

Egyptian Foreign Minister, Mahmoud Fawzi, denied his country had mistreated any foreigners.

HE CALLED the British and French allegations a "propaganda campaign based on unfounded reports."

Of reports that some Jews and French passports had been arrested in Egypt, Fawzi said: "We did take some security measures."

Opposing views of Egypt on one hand and Britain and France on the other brought new complications to the U. N.'s job of clearing the shipwreck-clogged canal, the main artery for transportation of Middle East oil to Europe.

Fawzi said that Egypt would agree to the use of British salvage equipment to reopen the waterway.

But he declared that the British and French crews could not remain in Egypt "in view of their own safety," since many persons were killed in the "recent aggression against Egypt."

British and French spokesmen reiterated that they would be willing to loan their equipment to tackle the job only if the crews remain.

Firemen Answer Trailer Court Call

City firemen answered a call Sunday at 9:20 p. m. when a fire broke out in a house trailer at the Elsea trailer court, just north of the city on Route 23. The trailer belonged to Garland Lusk.

The blaze started when oil from a space heater spilled over and ignited. The flames were extinguished by the owner.

Firemen checked the trailer to make sure the fire was out. Damage was minor.

Deputy Sheriff Charles Felkey investigated.

Billion-Dollar Road Program Envisioned By Ohio Chiefs

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The state highway department looked far into the future today, envisioning a billion-dollar program of road improvements that might be carried out sometime "if and when money is available."

The program of "advanced planning" was submitted to the Ohio Highway Construction Council by U. S. Linzell, state highway director. He labelled it "projects tentatively considered for future programs," said it had no official status but that it could "constitute a long-range program, subsequent to use of bond issue funds now programmed, if adequate funds are provided."

Specifically it calls for expenditures estimated to total $1,050,700,000.

Here are some of the major projects planned in the various state divisions of the highway department, and counties (costs only estimated):

DIVISION 3
ASHLAND — U. S. 42, from about Ohio 302 to Wayne County line, 7 miles 4-lane divided highway, $7,000,000; Ohio 250, from Ohio 162 to Savannah, 12.5 miles, 2 lanes on 4-lane right-of-way, limited or controlled access, $4,000,000.

DIVISION 4
STARK — Ohio 8, from U. S. 62 north of Canton to Akron's south corporation limit, 17 miles of 4-lane divided highway, $16,000,000; U. S. 62, from Ohio 44 to east of Alliance, 12.4 miles of 4-lane divided highway, $7,000,000.

TRUMBULL — Ohio 90, from Ohio 82 southward to existing 4-lane highway, 3 miles of 4-lane divided highway, $1,000,000; Ohio 5, northeast from Ohio 46 including Courtland by-pass, 5.10 miles of 2-lane highway, $3,200,000.

DIVISION 5
MUSKINGUM — U. S. 40, east from Zanesville east corporation line, 1.89 miles of 4-lane divided highway, $1,800,000; U. S. 40, from two miles east of Zanesville to

Irqi Premier Backing West

COMMUNISTS-BACKED OPPOSITION RAPPED

BAGHDAD, Iraq (AP)—Premier Nuri Said vowed Sunday night that Iraq will stand firmly with the West against communism despite a chorus of criticism from Moscow, Cairo and Damascus.

Cries from other Arab nations against the controversial Baghdad Pact alliance, he declared, were really aimed "simply and solely to destroy Iraq" and put it at the disposal of others.

He said Iraq will remain a member of the U. S.-backed alliance, which joined Iraq with Turkey, Pakistan, Iran and Britain in defense against Communist aggression.

The 68-year-old strongman told his people over Baghdad radio that opponents have heaped "insults, fabrications and inventions" on Iraq "to an extent that it is alleged to be on the verge of collapse."

"Certain members of these parties have brought those fabrications true by agitation and stirring up disturbances, by creating panic among the public, by throwing bombs and explosives in public places and the buildings of foreign embassies, and trying to organize networks for assassinations."

HEADING A call from the Syrian League, the Egyptian Federation of Trade Unions and the Egyptian Lawyers' Syndicate ordered all their members to strike today to protest what they called the Iraq government's "terrorism."

Five Iraqi political leaders, including a member of Parliament, are being tried for allegedly stirring up trouble. Iraq has been under martial law since Nov. 1.

Schools have been closed and rigid press censorship imposed.

The premier declared Iraq has three enemies: communism, "aggressive Zionism" and France. The present propaganda campaign against the country, he said, is directed by the Communists.

89 Korean Orphans Find Haven In U.S.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Eighty-nine Korean orphans arrived on a Pan American airliner today to begin new lives in their foster American homes.

The eldest is only seven. A dozen were infants in bassinets.

As the children emerged from the DC7C chartered by Henry Holt, an Oregon farmer, some foster parents were there to claim their wards. Mr. and Mrs. Harold E. Kay of Cleveland were tearful with joy when they picked up 2-year-old Joan Ann.

The children wore tags which gave their own names, their adopted names and the names of their foster parents.

California families adopted 32 orphans, and Oregon homes are taking in 17. The others are going to homes throughout the nation.

Fourteen adults, besides Holt, escorted the youngsters here from Seoul.

Asked if he was tired after helping care for the youngsters, Dale Weaver, an import-export executive in Seoul, said, "I'm not tired—I'm numb." Weaver will visit friends in New Paris, Ind., his former home.

The airlift is a project of Holt, who, racing against a Dec. 31 deadline of a special immigration provision, plans to make one more trip.

Cooperating with a religious aid organization, World Vision, Inc., Holt has been bringing Korean orphans to the United States in groups since last year. This plane load upped the total to almost 250.

Straight Ticket Encouragement Seen Possible

Change In Voting Machine Law Could Alter Ohio Practice

By REED SMITH

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Would changes in voting machine laws encourage straight ticket voting in Ohio?

Election officials will study that question and other voting problems for the benefit of the new Legislature which convenes next month.

Secretary of State Ted W. Brown, Ohio's chief election official, said he will ask the statewide association of election officials for recommendations at its Jan. 6-8 meeting here.

Officials in the Dayton-Springfield area reported complaints after the Nov. 6 election that "alphabetical" rotation of candidates' names on voting machines caused confusion.

They suggested changes in election laws to permit arrangement of candidates' names on voting machines in "political" order.

Such an arrangement, they explained, would place the names of party candidates for various offices in one line on machines and those of an opposing party on another line.

Names of candidates now are intermingled alphabetically on machines without regard to party under an arrangement to comply with a 1949 change in the state constitution.

The change did away with straight ticket voting with a single "X" mark. Substituted was the Massachusetts-type ballot grouping candidates of both parties by offices.

The change, Brown explained, was designed to require voters to mark their choices for individual candidates. Enabling legislation set up the "alphabetical" arrangement to carry out the spirit of the amendment.

That worked well for paper ballots, officials said, but caused some confusion in precincts where voting machines are used increasingly. Separate levers must be used to vote for individual candidates for the various offices.

Brown said machines could be set so that a vote could be cast with a single lever for party candidates for various offices. He added that the courts would have to say whether such an arrangement would be legal in Ohio.

The suggested listing of names in "political" order still would require use of separate levers in contests for different offices, officials explained.

But it would require elimination of the word "alphabetical" by the Legislature to effect the change, they added.

Rotation is accomplished on voting machines by having them carry names in different order on dif-

Politico Seeks Slice Of Income Taxes

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Democratic National Chairman Paul Butler says the major political parties should be financed by money skimmed off the top of federal income taxes.

His plan would permit each taxpayer to contribute to a party and then deduct the amount, up to a $10 maximum, from his income tax.

If a taxpayer's personal income tax for the year came to $500, for example, and he had contributed $10 to a major party, his net payment to Uncle Sam would be $490.

Butler estimated such a plan could bring in as much as $12 million a year each to the Democratic and Republican parties.

Ohio Orchardists Plan Campaign

COLUMBUS (AP) — A group of Ohio orchard operators has authorized a committee to go ahead with organization of the Ohio Fruit Growers' Assn. to promote the sale of Ohio-grown fruit.

Prime movers in the group seeking formation of the association were George L. Downes of Magnolia, Lester Luchsinger of Port Clinton and Vernon Patterson, Ohio State University extension horticulturist.

Formation of the association was authorized unanimously by more than 50 fruit growers.

ferent machines under the alphabetical system.

Paper ballots are prepared in pads so that each succeeding ballot in each booth follows the rotation.

Commenting on proposals for machine changes, Brown said in a prepared statement:

"If a change in the law is desired, it must come from the Legislature; no administrative office has the power to make rules which would controvert the law.

"If the Legislature desires to change the law, it may do so to provide that names of candidates appear on the first rotation not in alphabetical order, as the law now provides, but in political order.

"Whether such a law would be a violation of the spirit of the office type ballot constitutional amendment, we cannot, of course, say. Such a decision could come only from the judicial branch of our government."

Faulty Stamps Brings Bride Special Note

WASHINGTON (AP) — Acting Postmaster General Maurice H. Stans is sending a personal letter of regret and a wedding present to a young bride-to-be who's had a trying time with faulty postage stamps.

The gift: A silver stamp box and a supply of stamps.

Mrs. Harry Schornberg said in Louisville, Ky., last week that the stamps "fell off" some 150 announcements and shower invitations sent out in connection with the Dec. 29 wedding of her daughter, Sherlyn Ann, 18, to Wendell Reynolds, 19.

Mrs. Schornberg said the announcements had started coming back marked "postage due."

The Postoffice Department discovered some time ago that a batch of stamps with inferior glue had been shipped to postoffices. It ordered these stamps withheld from sale, but some got out. The Schornbergs apparently bought some of them.

Officials said Stans read about the Schornbergs' plight. They said he has written Miss Schornberg a letter expressing "deep regret" over the incident.

"As a token of the postoffice's concern over the unfortunate occurrence," he said, "I am sending you under separate cover as a personal gift, a silver stamp box, supplied with stamps."

Stans noted the faulty stamps resulted from a defect in new presses at the Bureau of Engraving and Printing—a defect he said has been corrected.

Pilot Crashes To Avoid Kids

DALLAS (AP) — Aubrey S. Crutcher, 53, of Houston was piloting two friends to Dallas after a deer hunt when he ran out of gas coming in to land Sunday.

He started to make a forced landing on a playground when he spotted a group of children.

Police said he deliberately stalled his twin-engine light plane, vaulted to one side and crashed "just to keep from hitting that bunch of kids."

Crutcher suffered a mouth cut, L. H. True of Dallas received a broken nose and J. A. Williamson, 48, of Houston escaped injury.

Local Memories Stir As Salvagers Burn Old Lake Steamers

Many Vacation Trips Included Ride On Ships

Loyal To Their End, Once-Proud Queens Resisted Flames

A Great Lakes era has ended, adding a nostalgic touch to the vacation memories of hundreds of Pickaway County residents.

When salvage workers deliberately set fire to two crusty, but once-proud queens of the lakes passenger service, the names of the two ships rang familiar to many who recall taking a "vacation cruise" on the old "D. and C. Line."

The vessels were burned last week at Lake St. Clair.

They were the giant Greater Detroit and the smaller Eastern States, the last of the big side-wheelers that once sailed under the flag of the Detroit & Cleveland Navigation Co.

A lone survivor, its steaming days over, now is anchored at East Tawas and has been converted into a "flotel," the water equivalent of a highway motel.

The towering wooden superstructures of the Greater Detroit and the Eastern States were burned off as a quick and economical means of salvaging their hulls and engines and other metal parts for scrap.

Neither had sailed since 1950, when the day of the sidewheel pleasure steamer really ended. Their ornate interiors had been stripped of their finer woods and fittings, such as solid cherry beds and walnut balustrades.

The binnacle and its compass and even the wheel were gone from the wheelhouses as the big boats were towed up the Detroit River to their pyre, a couple of miles off the Grosse Pointe Yacht Club. Four tugs were the pallbearers.

The old queens didn't want to die. Thousands gathered along the lake shore to see an era end, but many of those who saw the close had waited as much as four hours in 20-degree temperatures driven by a teeth-chattering 20-mile-an-hour wind.

Several attempts to get the ships burning failed. Gasoline finally was poured in when burning, oil-soaked rags, torches and even rockets failed to set them off.

But once ahold, the flames raced quickly from stem to stern. They bit at hanging clouds, leaping 500 feet high in the wind at times and reddening the night for miles.

U.N. Urged Use Cops In Hungary

NEW YORK (AP) — Anna Kethly, a member of the Hungarian government that was overthrown by Soviet force, wants the United Nations to take international police action in Hungary "as it did in Suez."

Miss Kethly told newsmen the U.N. should expel the present Hungarian delegation "since they so obviously represent no one but the Kremlin itself."

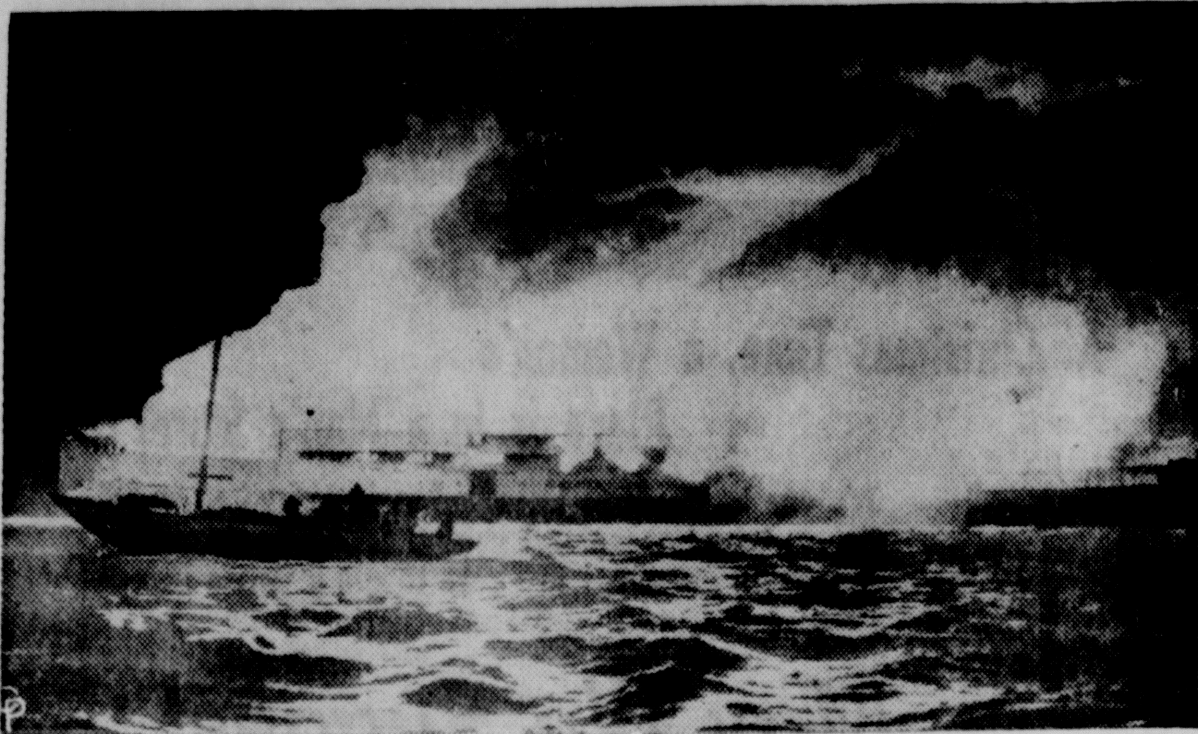

Miss Kethly, 67, was Minister of State in the short-lived revolutionary government of Imre Nagy. She came to the United States early in November.

Telephone Trick Brings Big Fine

DENVER (AP) — Because they telephoned their former neighbors as many as 30 times a night, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis C. Backus were convicted of invasion of privacy and fined $3,525.

Mrs. Paul D. Cooper and Mrs. Edward F. Vance were awarded damages of $1,000 each as a result of the calls, for which no motive ever was offered in court. Cooper was given $600 for loss of sleep plus $25 for slander. Vance was awarded $300.

Each of the four was awarded $150 in exemplary damages.

FLAMES LICK the superstructures of two once-proud lake ships in a spectacular blaze on Lake St. Clair, Detroit. Thousands of persons watched in the pre-dawn as the Greater Detroit Queen and the smaller Eastern States went up in smoke. Both were old passenger paddlewheelers that until a few years ago engaged in pleasure cruises on the Great Lakes but were now retired. (International Soundphoto)

"Mary Haworth's Mail"

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I am 22 years old, and have been married exactly one year. My husband is 23, and stationed here with the Navy. The problem is, I have no desire for children and recently my husband has started talking about raising a family. I get panicky at the thought of staying home every day, washing diapers and pinching pennies.

All my girl friends either have babies or are expecting them. And when I visit them or go to gift showers given for them, I gloat inwardly at my own freedom—being able to leave the house every day and go to the office, thus seeking refuge from domestic drudgery. Of course I never reveal my thoughts to them. I merely say, "Oh, one of these days I'll catch up with you."

When we first married, my husband wanted a new car and I wanted new furniture, so children were out of the question for the time being. We have been really enjoying ourselves, buying new things and getting them paid for—but now we have them. And it seems my husband's next objective is children.

What do you think of a woman's not wanting children? I've read that such women are immature and hate responsibility but I feel that isn't true of me. I've been working and earning my way since my first year in high school. Yet I don't love my job so much that I'm afraid to leave it; for I am ready to go any time my husband gives notice that we're shipping out to another base.

W. P. DEAR W. P.: What do I think of a wife, age 22, who doesn't want children—who gets panicky at the idea of staying home every day, washing diapers and pinching pennies?

Well, I would infer that she is, as yet, an underdeveloped sort of character, who is showing the blighting after-effects of taking an emotional beating from her parents, all through her childhood, on the score of having been born to them.

I would suppose that she had been suckled in the conviction, embraced by her parents, that children are burdensome and a nuisance—with little good to be said for them—who take the joy out of life for whoever has to be their support.

Or, if it happened that she was a pampered only child, whose parents habitually made an extravagant fuss over her, I might construe that she was underdeveloped in terms of being conditioned only to get, and to take—never having advanced from babyhood to wards maturity, sufficiently to know the satisfactions of being a source-of-giving to other lives.

Discussing the question "Is Christian culture on the decline?" an internationally respected philosopher remarked to an American audience recently that we probably won't know the answer for several hundred years. But he notes that our culture (by which he means "a way of life, flowing from a point of view about God and man") shows signs of exhaustion.

One such sign is that all up and down the Western world, people complain of fatigue, he says. And he sees this weariness affirmed in our fiction, which deals so repetitiously in erotic excess, piled on to stimulate jaded minds. Then, relevant to your balky mood, he adds that a falling birth rate, wherever encountered, refers to "a basic rejection of life: an unconscious belief that life isn't worth having, or passing on."

Can Future College Graduate Effectively Express Self?

ATHENS, Ohio (AP)—Whether he's talking to his neighbor over the back fence or addressing a session of the United Nations, will the college graduate of the next few years be able to express his thoughts so his listeners understand?

And how can the college student, too busy with his major course of study to take many speech classes, learn to express himself effectively? Will the nation's colleges and universities, jammed with a predicted 14 million students, be able to provide a good, short course?

The answers may come from a study being conducted at Ohio University here. It's expected to take three years. The first year is being financed with $10,000 from the fund for the advancement of education, set up by the Ford Foundation.

Dr. Lester L. Hale is on leave from the University of Florida until June 1957 to conduct the first year of the study. He is working with Dr. Claude E. Kantner, director of the school of dramatic arts and speech, and four members of the staff.

Although they are doing much of the research at Ohio University, the group intends to visit other universities and industrial centers for facts.

They will consider, for example, how to make a freshman speech class—perhaps the only speech course the college student will take in his four years—so effective it will make the student a better speaker for the rest of his life, in public or in private conversation.

One idea is to take the class into the realm of real-life situations. At a university like Ohio, this might mean having the student apply his speech instruction to student government meetings, fraternity and sorority meetings, and similar campus activities.

If the nation's institutions of higher learning can do this effectively despite an expected increase of six million students by 1970, it may help the graduate "sell" his skills, Dr. Hale says.

"In this day and age, when a prospective employer will pay for an airplane ticket to have a potential employee come and talk with him about the job," he points out, "we think the ability to comtacking the problem include giving students greater responsibility for their own learning, elimination of non-essential or overlapping instruction, variations in class size, mechanical and electronic devices and efforts to ease faculty workload, Dr. Hale said.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The two men who talk today at Gettysburg — President Eisenhower and India's Prime Minister Nehru — came out of worlds so different they might have been in different centuries.

Both men are natural leaders. Both have tempers. Both go in for platitudes. Both earnestly want peace. That much they have in common.

Eisenhower, a West Pointer trained to use force to preserve freedom, relies heavily on staff work to run the government.

Nehru, an intellectual who helped lead India to freedom through passive resistance, is less than an ideal administrator. He seems to trust himself most.

A good example is the number of jobs he holds: prime minister, foreign minister, defense minister, head of the planning commission and supervisor of the atomic energy program.

Eisenhower came from a family where all the sons had to earn their own way. All his adult life he lived under military discipline. Nehru, only son of a wealthy father, never had to work. But he created his own personal discipline of passive resistance which he adhered to rigidly, even when jailed and when British troops beat him with sticks.

Eisenhower, an extrovert, loves the outdoors, likes to have close friends around. He is a fairly uncomplicated man who can talk over his problems and his thoughts with his aides.

The introverted Nehru likes people in the mass — according to his biographer Frank Moraes — but is so complicated that he never reveals himself completely even to his most trusted friends.

Eisenhower is head of the strongest nation on earth, and the most modern in its industrial development.

Nehru is head of one of the largest nations on earth — its 400 million people more than double the number of Americans — and one of the oldest. But among the big powers, it is militarily the weakest.

Eisenhower is trying to keep the United States in the lead in every way in the 20th century. Nehru is trying desperately to get India into the 20th century.

Ancient Carving Found In Ohio

COLUMBUS (AP) — A rare, sandstone carving discovered in a field two miles south of New Hope (Preston County), Ohio, has been identified as an effigy pipe of the late prehistoric period, probably dating back 1,500 to 1,700 years.

"Unto Us A Child Is Born" A Spark In A Pagan Night

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the first in a series of studies of the birth and times of Christ. It describes the status of religion in the heartland of civilization at the time Jesus was born.

Let us go back. Far back. Back to the shades of indelible time. Let us wander in the byways of a strange moment when dawn came at midnight.

It is long ago, but today is still real. The marvel of that hour remains, imperishable and shimmering new.

And yet, it seems so strange. How unfamiliar and remote the atmosphere, how charged with dread this ancient year when swarms of grotesque gods prevail and a newborn Baby cries in Bethlehem.

It is a curious circumstance. A lonely spark, deep in a pagan night. An isolated candle in the dark. Yet it shapes our world.

OUT OF a Babel of delusion, one single chord strikes through the overriding din, and guides the march of destiny. It transforms men and governments. It forges the matrix of a faith.

Here, in Rome's old empire, amid the faded finery of Egypt, Greece and Persia, here astride the crossroads of a bygone age, a thousand deities hold sway, their clamor thunderous above the still, small voice.

See those ivory shrines, those freakish images of creatures, partly man and partly goat, those chanting hordes of white-robed eunuch priests, those lofty temples built to Zeus holding lightning in his hand.

It is odd the turning point would come, that man's transcendent star would rise, just when he floundered most, adrift in fantasy.

But that is the grand phenomenon: Out of a spiritual Sahara rises a spring of living water. This one event becomes a hub of history.

You are not apt to note it in this distant age—so widespread are the myths and mystic cults:

IN CAVES or groves, the members meet to ring bells, sing and stomp. They whip up whirling frenzies, slashing their own flesh and quaffing blood and writhing in the gore beneath the grating altar of a sacrificial bull—the "taurobolium."

You ask, "Did many do this sort of thing?" Oh yes, quite so. It seems religious fevers race through the lands, bursting out in weird array, in rampant rites to ectoplasmic gods.

Those gods are potent entities: the dagger-wielding sun god, Mithra; the queen of all fertility, Cybele; the great Osiris, rebirth god, and mother-earth Demeter. Masses huddle in their shadow.

It is hard to recognize this world of 2,000 Decembers back—back when that tiny parapearchaeology at the Ohio State Museum estimated the carving was made in the 1200-1400 A. D. era when the Miami Valley was populated by the Fort Ancient Indians. The pipe, in the form of a nude woman, is four inches long.

Baby said effigy pipes portraying the female figure have been found in southeastern United States, but that they are considered rare in the Ohio Valley.

arose against the heathen flood, back when that garden grew up in a jungle.

Come along the streets of any town, of Corinth, Alexandria, of Joppa, Tyre, or even Jerusalem. Listen to the prattling of magicians, dream-interpreters and wonder-workers.

"May thy planet favor thee today." This is the common greeting. Men's minds are bowed to soothsayers, astrologers, diviners of the future in the liver of a sheep.

THE DAZZLING sights that catch the eye are the showy marble temples, served by hundreds of attendants, by throngs of vestal virgins and corps of temple prostitutes.

The myths and superstitions of all time and place seem concentrated in this realm, some changed a little, some distorted and combined, borrowing this and dropping that, groping after truth. From far and wide, the hosts of lords and demons come—war gods, gods of soil and wind and sea and reproduction—mingling ghostly chaos.

In this churning atmosphere, a little seed takes root in Galilee. How could it live? Why do we mark it now That is the? exclamation point of centuries.

The apparitions in Mediterranean skies surge into Judea, straining efforts of the House of Abraham to hold to its one universal God of mercy, justice and of law.

The jumbled spirit polyglot had come with Rome's imperial sweep, with one army shuttling to-and-fro, with one-great Greece casting its spell everywhere.

THE LUSTY pantheon of Greece found replicas in Rome's celestial family—the stormy Zeus, god of Grecian skies, resembles Rome's stern Jupiter, and all the others merge and move in close affinity.

The wildest rites are stirred by female deities—Cybele from Asia Minor, Rome's Diana, Assyria's Astarte, Greece's Demeter — and that rowdy god of wine, Dionysus, clad in fawn skins.

With beating cymbals, drums and flutes, the devotees rip animals apart, eat meat still raw, pet serpents, shriek and work themselves into a cataleptic trance.

Less orgiastic are the many men devoted to stalwart Mithra, migrant god from Persia. There's also a popular fraternity of men, the occult Orphic Brotherhood. Even the Caesars are in the catalogue of gods. Their genius they call it. The Emperor Augustus says he's proud of this "revival" of religion. Slave brigades are building bigger towers to the gods.

Yet all things find their time and place, and out of deepest paradox is sometimes born the clear-est reason.

Look at the majestic Parthenon, erected for one of that flock of 20 romping deities spawned by Zeus and his wives and sisters up on Mount Olympus. Gaze upon the regal Pantheon of Rome, with walls as thick as forts.

Not long from now, they both are turned to churches, dedicated to that quiet message out of Bethlehem, that small stream swelled into a sea, as love emerges from fear.

NEW COLD THEORY
AN INTERESTING and perhaps all-important theory on the origin of the common cold was presented to a clinical session of the American Medical Association recently by a physician from Washington. Dr. Arno G. Motulsky of the University of Washington medical school has been working on research projects which, he feels, will prove heredity as the cause of many diseases, including colds.

Dr. Motulsky has come to the conclusion that there are two types of genes responsible for diseases in the human — those which cause trouble directly by changing a chemical process of the body and those which depend upon some outside influence, such as a change in temperature, to complete the act.

This latter germ, which is the one causing colds, also determines whether the person is susceptible to colds from wet feet or sitting in a draft, according to the doctor. Dr. Motulsky emphasized that researchers up to now have been unable to suppress these diseases-causing genes, although projects are now underway to find the answers.

Finding and isolating the genes which cause body chemical changes will benefit more people than cold sufferers. Will suppression of these genes make it possible, in time, to transplant organs from one person to another?

Until the day of successful gene isolation arrives, however, medical treatment and diet regulation are the only means of combating the common cold. At least cold sufferers will henceforth know who to blame for their miseries — they probably got their colds from great-granddad Charlie.

BENEVOLENT 'BARGAINS'
THE PRESIDENT of the American Medical Association gave a sharp definition of the government's trend to spend more of the taxpayers' money on health and medical projects. "It is good politics to do so," he told the assembled doctors in Seattle.

Some years ago an eager-spending federal administration got its big toe in the door leading to government "aid" in the field of medicine. Congressmen liked the vote-getting result so well that the door was not slammed, and inch by inch the entire foot is being shoved through the aperture.

It is a good talking and promising point in election years, to hold out hope for free medical assistance to more and more individuals, beyond that which has been administered through the U. S. Public Health Service.

The leading medical authorities in the nation are alarmed to some degree because so many persons still want to see the government in the role of big brother, dishing out so-called gifts and bargains labeled as benevolent economic planning. They are more alarmed because few Congressmen stand and fight against the trend.

There is an area of legitimate concern by the government for the health and welfare of the people, but the trend is to extend that area a little at each session of Congress.

George E. Sokolsky's
These Days
It is a puzzlement both at home and abroad what the foreign policy of the United States is and where it is made. For instance, on the Suez question, it was John Foster Dulles who proposed the Users' Association, but it was also John Foster Dulles who killed the Users' Association by withdrawing from it such support as would make it vital.

What happened between the two London meetings to change Dulles's mind, particularly as it is known that the Dulleses, all of them, are of a tough stock that does not engage in intellectual meanderings? They have in the past shown that what they say they mean.

The answer, of course, is that the foreign policy of the United States, which constitutionally is the function of the President, has, by tradition and habit, been made in the State Department. It is inconceivable that such Secretaries of State as John Hay, Elihu Root, or Charles Evans Hughes would hold office without responsibility and during their tenures as Secretary of State no President disregarded their views.

On the other hand, Cordell Hull was interested in only a few phases of foreign relations and it was not long before Franklin D. Roosevelt became, in effect, his own foreign minister. It can be said that from 1937 (the Quarantine Speech) to the end of his term and life, Franklin D. Roosevelt and his coadjutor, Harry Hopkins, made the foreign policy of the United States without regard to the State Department. Constitutionally, Roosevelt did not exceed his authority although administratively his disregard of his Secretary of State made for confusion.

In the Truman Administration, Ed Stettinius, James Byrnes, George Marshall and Dean Acheson were Secretaries of State. Stettinius was a delightful man of small competence and we can pass him over. In fact, he really belonged to the Roosevelt Administration. James Byrnes ignored Harry Truman which angered the latter and a feud ensued that has not yet ended.

George Marshall, Dean Acheson and Harry Truman formed a workable team which included the advantage of mutual respect and admiration.

The result was an effective conduct whether one agrees with their policy or not. Dean Acheson was the really competent person in this combination and those who opposed the Truman policies attacked Acheson rather than Truman or Marshall.

President Eisenhower has somehow managed to establish several state departments inside the White House as well as in the State Department. For instance, the National Security Council, of which the Secretary of State is a member, has been expanded in importance and makes policy as much as the State Department does.

W. H. Jackson has been in and out of the White House as a sort of coordinator of foreign relations. He is reputed to be both a wise and powerful man, although in terms of constitutional functioning, it is difficult to understand what he does that the Secretary of State should not do.

Also there is Harold Stassen whose formal title is Special Assistant to the President and who has, on occasion, been called the Secretary of Peace. Precisely what Stassen's job is, no one can describe, but he is a very busy man, seeking both power and kleig lights.

aid, to reach more voting people each year, continues to grow and grow, and government control of medical treatment is almost certain to be the final result unless the people rise to help check it.

CHAPTER 17
THE entry in Who's Who was not very informative. Gordonstoun was a soldier of some distinction. His regiment was a fine one. He had an address in Scotland and another in London—77, Montpelier Square, S.W.7. His recreation was given as stalking. Casson smiled. His wife had been well and truly stalked. But he needed more before he went to see her, so he rang up a friend of his in the Adjutant-General's Department at the war office.
"Gordonstoun," said the voice. "Extraordinary chap. Why?"
"Friend of mine was asking," Casson replied glibly. "I think he wants to get his son into the Army."
The voice cackled. "Neil's chivvy him around all right. Believes in discipline. Amazing chap. Runs a mile before breakfast. Reads the lesson in church and all that. The troops love him. Just shows, doesn't it?"
"Where's he now?" Casson asked.
"Kenya," said the voice. "Guarding the jolly old empire. Good show."
"Thanks a lot, Dickie..." Casson rang off. Perry was a good picker. The wife of an absent and martinet general was in no position to withstand a clever blackmail. But, so far as he knew, she was Perry's first woman victim. Therefore, he might have said something gauche, something that made her hate him more than fear him. She might have a conscience. She might even help. You never knew with women. That is why Casson liked them.
At Mount Street there was a note from Lockyer with fresh details on Perry.
John Henry Perry had entered Gamman's bank in 1921 at the age of seventeen. His career in the bank had been undistinguished. After thirty years' service he had retired. He was then unmarried and his address had been 17, Elgar Crescent, W.2. A postscript added: "No war service."
One point puzzled Casson. How had Perry dared to blackmail clients of the bank in which he himself had worked for so long? He must have reckoned that they would recognize him, even under his disguise. Unless he had been one of the unseen workers behind the frosted glass wall which separated the public from the private.
"Before I begin I would like to tell you who I am," he said. She lifted one hand in a slight gesture.
"I am the Director of Mantion, Heywood in Vigo Street," he went on, not heeding her. "I was a captain in the Airborne Division at the end of the war, I am a member of Cane's..."
She stood up. "Please, Mr. Casson?"
"Will Mrs. Gordonstoun help Casson? Find the answer here tomorrow."
Casson reached behind him for the photograph of Perry dressed as Bagot, uncovered it, and laid it beside her.
"At twenty-five minutes to eleven yesterday morning that man in the photograph blackmailed you," he said.
"Will Mrs. Gordonstoun help Casson? Find the answer here tomorrow."

Insurance, A Growing Wave

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (P)—Jack Nussbaum's mother didn't raise her boy to be a life insurance salesman.

He became one because at the time it seemed a better idea than starving. Today he thinks it's a wise mother who alerts her son early to the possibilities of financial success in the booming insurance field.

For Nussbaum feels that any young man who gets into the business now will ride the crest of a still-growing wave.

"In 1935 there was 95 billion dollars of life insurance in force," said Nussbaum, president of the National Assn. of Life Underwriters. "By 1945 it jumped to 151 billion and is now over 200 billion."

"In another ten years it should reach anywhere between 250 billion and a trillion dollars."

Nussbaum's own career is an example of the success that can come to a man who stumbles in to his natural vocation by chance.

He quit school at 12 in the city of his birth—Glasgow, Scotland, and took a job in his aunt's cloak factory.

"The job paid 60 cents a week, and it seemed a lot at the time," he said.

Three years later he came to America and became a clothing cutter. After serving in France during World War I, he began saving his money and bought into a Milwaukee store specializing in high-priced men's clothes.

In 1929 there occurred a notable business recession — some even called it a crash—and Nussbaum's income dropped quickly from $10,000 a year to zero.

"I was offered a job selling insurance," he said, "and I took it very reluctantly."

"The first 25 weeks I earned $19.12—an average of 75 cents a week. These were really rough times. When a man said he couldn't afford to buy insurance, I was telling the truth. But I stuck to it."

His income rose steadily. Since 1942 he has been a member of the select "million dollar round-table," made up of salesmen who sell that much insurance in a year. He earns up to $50,000 a year but is prouder of the fact that, despite his lack of formal schooling, he is a faculty adviser at Purdue University's Institute of Life Insurance Marketing.

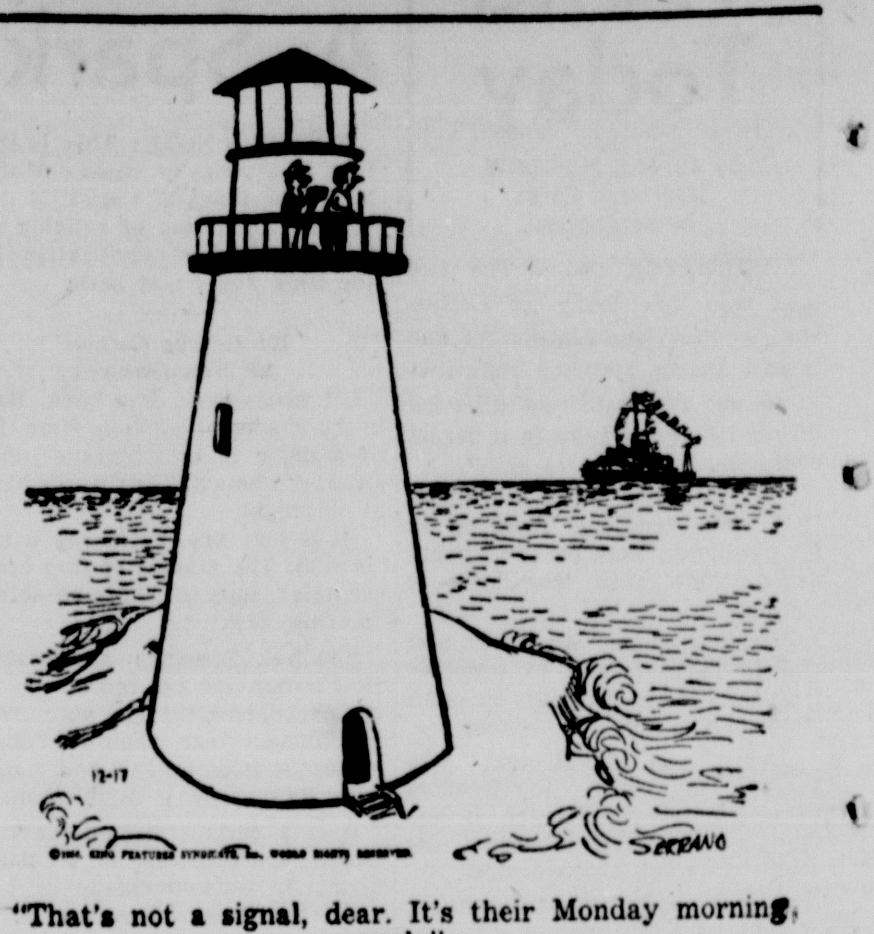

Nussbaum says the public has a number of misconceptions about life insurance salesmen.

"You don't have to put your foot in a door to sell insurance," he said. "Women in particular are well-educated on the value of insurance, especially since we began emphasizing its living benefits rather than its death benefits."

"And you don't have to be a joiner."

Nussbaum himself belongs to only two organizations—the professional organization he heads and the American Legion.

New Aid Against Colds May Have Been Found

By HERMAN M. BUNDEN, M.D.
MANY of our great medical discoveries were made through an error or an accident. In fact, a study is being planned right now to determine whether just such an error might have uncovered a prophylactic against colds.
An antibiotic nasal solution is now under scrutiny. There is evidence that it may cut the incidence of head colds in children of school age and maybe adults, too.
Through a misunderstanding, 60 young children in an orphanage were instructed to spray each nostril three times a day with biomydrin nasal solution during the months of December, January and February.
For Use At Onset
Actually, it had been intended that the youngsters, aged 6 to 12, use the solution just at the onset of a cold.
However, the methodical use had some surprising results. Of the 60 children, only five developed even early signs of upper respiratory tract infection. And these signs lasted less than 24 hours.
None of the children was hospitalized and none lost time from school. Eight who had chronic nasal congestion at the start of the treatment were cleared within seven days.
These youngsters weren't shielded from colds by anyone. Far from it. They were constantly exposed to upper respiratory tract infections through their contact with other children in the school.
On the other hand, 60 youngsters in another orphanage, used as a control group, suffered a relatively high number of colds. They did not use the biomydrin. During February, March and April, 46 of them had one or more head colds lasting more than 48 hours.
Bed Parties
Thirty-two of them had to be placed in the infirmary and lost one or more days of school.
Drs. Theodore A. Schwartz and John W. Helase Jr. who report on the subject in "Eye, Ear, Nose and Throat Monthly," conclude that it is possible that the constant action of the antibiotics on the nasal mucosa prevented the secondary invaders from multiplying and producing severe nasal infections.
QUESTION AND ANSWER
H. S.: I have been reading that certain antibiotics help the growth of animals. Do you think they might promote growth in infants and children?
Answer: Certain studies have shown some increase in growth in children with the use of the antibiotics. However, because of the side effects from these drugs in humans, their use for such a purpose would not be advisable.

Christmas Meeting Enjoyed By Pickaway Garden Club

Group Holds Contest On Arrangements

The Christmas meeting of the Pickaway Garden Club was held in the Knollwood Village home of Mrs. Schubert Measamer. Holiday decorations and a background of Christmas music welcomed the approximately fifty members and guests who attended.

Mrs. Harold Sherman and Mrs. Willard Smith of the Pataskala Garden Club showed many Christmas arrangements for tables, mantle or doors, using varieties of evergreens, candles, pine cones, figurines, styrofoam and angel hair.

Mrs. Sherman also demonstrated the making of a door swag of pine held by a block of oasis with detachable centers of a sophisticated nature or of toys and candy to please the children.

Holiday arrangements brought by club members were judged by Mrs. Guy Campbell with the following awards being made:

Madonna Arrangement: 1st, Mrs. Measamer; 2nd, Mrs. Luther Bower; 3rd, Mrs. Charles Thompson; 4th, Mrs. John Mast;

Table Centerpiece: 1st, Mrs. Miller Dunkle; 2nd, Mrs. Oscar Root; 3rd, Mrs. Richard Jones;

Mantle or Wall Arrangement: 1st, Mrs. Dudley Carpenter; 2nd, Mrs. Russell Clark.

Mrs. Richard Jones conducted a short business meeting concerning the holiday activities of the club. Christmas trees have been purchased and will be decorated for the two locations of the Home and Hospital. Christmas baskets will be sent to shut-in club members, and a donation was voted for the downtown Christmas Decorations Committee.

A group of the members attended the Christmas meeting and luncheon of the Columbus Council of Garden Clubs of Ohio. Mrs. Charles Thompson took part in the program, exhibiting the large "stained glass" windows, with which she will decorate the front of her home this holiday season. They are constructed of colored cellophane with plastic frames, and they depict two nativity scenes.

Mrs. Richard Jones, as a delegate from the Pickaway Garden Club, attended the annual meeting of the Garden Club of Ohio, which was held in Cleveland.

Mrs. Gene Thurston, Miss Virginia Hulse and Mrs. William Deffenbaugh were voted in as new members, and the following guests were introduced: Mrs. Morris Lewis, Mrs. I. J. Ellis, Mrs. Robert Gary, and Mrs. Robert Currie of Circleville, and Miss Kay Rigbee of Mechanicsburg.

After a gift exchange, holiday refreshments were served by the hostesses: Mrs. Measamer, Mrs. Clark, Mrs. Robert Burton, Mrs. John Yunker, Mrs. Emmitt Barnhart, Mrs. Fred Tammany and Mrs. Carl Heffelfinger.

Wesley-Weds Enjoy Christmas Caroling Party

The caroling party of the Wesley-Wed Class of First Methodist Church was held Sunday evening, when the group visited homes of several members of the church, who are ill.

Following the caroling the group went to the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. E. McDonald on Dunkle Rd., where a short business meeting was held and refreshments were served.

Mr. Gunner Musselman, class president, presented Dr. Lloyd Sprouse, class teacher, with a gift in behalf of the class.

The Rev. Charles Reed and Mr. Richard Plum were in charge of the arrangements for the caroling. In January the social session for the Wesley-Wed group will be held January 23, with a party being planned by members who live in Knollwood Village.

Vinegar Helpful In Shipping Gifts

That common household commodity, vinegar, can help see to it that Aunt Susie and the others on your Christmas shopping list receive their holiday packages safe and sound.

Vinegar, you say? Well, according to the experts at Railway Express, gummed tape is the best and easiest way to complete the preparation of your packages for shipping.

They say that just a few drops of vinegar, any type, added to the moistening water will make the gummed tape stick more securely. The express specialists suggest you use tape at least two inches wide, and avoid soaking it. Use the water-vinegar combination and moisten with a damp sponge, cloth or paper napkin.

So do not put all your vinegar in the salad dressing. Save a little to help protect those Christmas shipments.

24 Attend Meet Of Social Club

Twenty-four members of the Five Points Methodist Social Hour Club attended the regular monthly meeting, held in the church basement.

Mr. and Mrs. Ned Long were hosts for the covered dish supper, which preceded the business meeting.

The president, Mrs. Herman Porter opened the meeting with group singing of "Love Divine" and "Stand Up For Jesus."

Mrs. Helen Phillips read the 29th Psalm as the scripture lesson and the Rev. Mr. Brown offered prayer.

The meeting closed with the members singing "God Be With You."

The next meeting will feature a Christmas party with the exchange of 10 cent gifts. Mr. and Mrs. Herman Porter and Mr. and Mrs. John O'Day will be hosts.

Homeade Cookies Make Excellent Christmas Gifts

Christmas cookies are a tradition. If you have not tried a hand at making them yet, start this year. Bake them for presents. What could be nicer? A gift from your own kitchen has special meaning because you made it yourself.

Wrap your cookie gift prettily. Team it with a useful kitchen present—a cookie sheet or baking pan. Better yet, the above lady is fixing a holiday gift basket with decorative apothecary-type jars filled with the good spices that make Christmas cookies so special.

As for the cookies themselves, here are several suggestions: First, there are Queen's Tartlets with sweet, crunchy centers of chopped pecans, honey sugar and grated orange rind.

Next comes a traditional treat. The Bavarian Lebkuchen is flavored with such spicy good things as cinnamon, cloves, allspice and nutmeg.

Queen's Tartlets: Soften one cup sweet butter and blend with one cup sour cream and 2 egg yolks. Sift 2 cups flour and 1/2 teaspoon salt and add to butter mixture. Blend well. Chill until firm.

Combine 6 tablespoons chopped pecans, 6 tablespoons honey, 6 tablespoons sugar, 1 tablespoon grated orange or tangerine rind.

Roll out pastry on floured board to 1/4 inch thickness. Cut into rounds and fit into tart or muffin pan hollows. Spoon about 1 teaspoon of nut-honey mixture into each tartlet. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) about 15 to 20 minutes. Cool on rack. Makes about 20.

Lebkuchen: Sift together 2 1/2 cups sifted flour, 1/4 teaspoon cinnamon, 1/2 teaspoon cloves, 1/4 teaspoon allspice, 1/4 teaspoon nutmeg, 1/4 teaspoon baking soda.

Mix together 2 eggs, 1 cup sugar, one-third cup honey and 1/4 cup finely chopped nuts. Add dry ingredients and blend well. Add one-third cup chopped candied orange peel and 2 tablespoons chopped

Service Center Scene Of Event Of Local WWS

Family night was observed at the meeting of the Woman's Society of World Service of First Evangelical United Brethren Church, held in the service center.

Mrs. Mabel Estep opened the meeting and conducted the business. She read thank you notes, sent by shut-ins for the Thanksgiving baskets they received from the group.

Gladys Noggle, program leader for the evening, presented the film "Our Work In African Missions."

"Away In A Manger" was sung by Ann and Janice Perdon, who were accompanied on the piano by Mrs. James Pierce.

Mrs. Howard Conley read the scripture lesson to the background music of "Silent Night."

Mrs. Woodrow Carley and Miss Phyllis Hawkes sang "O Holy Night." They were accompanied by Miss Lucille Kirkwood.

Hostesses for the evening were: Mrs. Montford Kirkwood Jr., Mrs. Montford Kirkwood Sr., Miss Kirkwood, Miss Olive Ward and Miss Mary Ward.

Tables and the service center were decorated in keeping with the holiday season.

Mrs. Jean Hardin Host To Members Of Garden Club

The home of Mrs. Jean Hardin featured Yuletide decorations for the December meeting of the Monrovia Garden Club.

Following the business meeting the group enjoyed a gift exchange, with the presents being distributed by "Mr. and Mrs. Santa Claus." "Mrs. Santa" judged the gifts on originality, and awarded prizes to Marie Grabil, Grace Huffman and Garnett Porter.

The tour committee reported on the three classes in their Christmas decoration contest. Door, window and tree (the tree must be on the outside of the home).

The following prizes will be given in each class: $4, first; $2, second and $1, third.

The exhibits will be judged on beauty and originality during the judging tour, which will be held Thursday, December 27. The tour will start at 6 p. m. at the school in Five Points and will end at the Methodist Church, where refreshments will be served.

The contest is open to members of the Monrovia Garden Club and to residents of Monroe Township. Those entering the contest are to inform Mrs. Harry Smith or Mrs. Clyde Michels, who are mapping the tour route.

Following the close of the meeting, refreshments were served by the hostess and her committee.

U. S. Electrical Industry Sees Big Boom Ahead

4 To 6 Pct. Increase In Business Expected By Most Companies

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP) — Electrical manufacturing industry leaders — whose products range from giant turbines for utility plants to toasters for the kitchen — see good times a cinch for most of their divisions through 1957 and beyond.
They variously estimate the total dollar volume of sales next year as four to six per cent higher than this, making a 21-billion-dollar market for electrical goods.
General Electric's president, Ralph J. Cordiner, puts the gain for the industry at four to five per cent. He says his company will enter 1957 with a bigger backlog than at the start of 1956, and he sees no likelihood of a letdown in the second half.
Westinghouse Electric's director of market planning, William W. Morris, says the existing backlog of orders in the electric utility apparatus division of the industry insures capacity operation through 1957 and into 1958. He expects sales in this division to top two billion dollars.
Expansion plans of other industries have brought new orders foreshadowing a 15 per cent gain next year in the sale of industrial apparatus (other than for utilities), Morris says, to about 3½ billion dollars. There may be flattening of the sales curve of electrical items for the construction industry, however. These sales came to five billion dollars in 1956. The market for electrical products for defense, which brought in slightly more than five billion this year, should rise to 5½ billion dollars in 1957.
The consumer products division will see the greatest competitive battles — competition not only between electrical manufacturers but also with a number of other industries (such as autos) for the consumer's dollar. Morris thinks the electrical industry's share should reach five billion dollars next year.
Judson S. Sayre, president of Norge Division of Borg-Warner, is even more optimistic. He says appliance sales should top five billion dollars next year.
Ross D. Siragusa, chairman and president of Admiral Corp., thinks 1957 will be better. He says TV

Uncensored Report On Red China Ancient, Western Methods Mixed By Chinese Medics

Editor's Note: Following is the last in a series of articles by David Lancanshner, Canadian newspaper reporter, who recently completed an extensive and uncensored tour of Communist China.
By DAVID LANCASHNER
PEIPING (AP) — Is your circulation a little sluggish? Got that tired, rundown feeling? Then take the bones from a tiger, grind up fine and eat.
Got the sniffles? Munch a pill made from a ground-up centipede. Your aching back? Well, dried beetles are an excellent pain killer.
Doctors in Communist China say these remedies — taken from Chinese medical journals written before the birth of Christ — actually work. In Peiping the traditionalist doctors who use the remedies are taking business away from Western-trained medics.
"The Chinese physicians have been practicing 3,000 years, but this is the first time they have ever had a hospital of their own," said Dr. Wei Ching-ming, director of the Hospital of Chinese Medicine.
Most of our patients have already been treated in Western-method hospitals and have come out uncured. We take them in here, and the percentage of successful cures is really quite amazing.
The hospital, with tilting Chinese roofs and flower-filled courtyards, is set in a block of Chinese summer houses built during the Ming Dynasty 500 years ago.
Its offices and diagnosis rooms are filled with glass-fronted bookcases containing medical textbooks thousands of years old, printed in flowing Chinese script on rice paper. They contain herbal recipes and general remedies which clash with practically every principle of modern medicine.
Dr. Wei is a Western-style surgeon, trained in a Japanese college. Here he serves strictly in an administrative capacity, while the traditionalists do the practicing.
"We have 13 Western doctors on the staff here, and 51 traditional sales should come close to 9 million sets, boosted by the popularity of portables.

men," he said. "But the Westerners' job is only diagnosis, and sometimes they take X-rays. Consultations are held between the two schools, but the traditionalists do the work."
Chinese medicine men have been practicing in villages and in the back streets of cities for centuries. They use knowledge handed down from father to son, but are unaware of the reasons behind their cures.
"A traditional doctor can do many things an orthodox man can't. But he has no theoretical knowledge at all," Dr. Wei said.
"Now the Communists have decided that Chinese medicine should be developed even further. Since 1950, almost all the hospitals in Peiping have established traditional clinics, and Western and ancient doctors are exchanging information."
Dr. Tang Chun-san is a 65-year-old practitioner of the old system. He observed:
"Foreigners are inclined to consider us as quacks. That's ridiculous. It takes us far longer to learn traditional medicine than a Western doctor spends in school."
"I myself studied for 11 years under our village doctor 40 years ago and had to memorize about 3,000 prescriptions. Now that we have been recognized, I'm a teacher myself. I have a couple of disciples who follow me around and watch me while I work."
At the moment, Dr. Tang was working on a patient suffering from nervous exhaustion. He had been discharged by a Western hospital around the corner. The doctor was giving the resigned-looking man a rubdown.
"For neurasthenia, the Westerners give a patient medicine and make him sleep it off," said Dr. Tang. "Here, we use massage."
"A few weeks ago, a patient in one of the Western hospitals was due to have his leg cut off. It was paralyzed. We don't believe in amputation."
"We brought the man in here and treated him for a few days with herbs. He's up and walking around now — not walking very well, but he has both legs."
Aside from the use of medicines made from tiger bones and tiger urine, dried bugs, frog powder, powdered deer horns and dehydrated snakes, about the strangest practice is acupuncture, the science of needle treatment.
By pricking the patient with long, springy needles, the medicine men say they have succeeded in curing deafness, paralysis, nervous disorders, and have even achieved a certain amount of success with polio.

Czechs Claim West Uses Spy Robots
VIENNA (AP) — The Czechoslovak newspaper Lidova Demokracie says Western propaganda balloons flying over eastern Europe and Russia carry "spying robots."
The paper said each balloon is equipped with a robot camera which from a height of 50,000 feet can photograph a 27-mile strip of the countryside. Radio signals then alert "espionage centrals" in the West and the balloons are brought to a landing by radio somewhere east of the Soviet Union, the paper said.

Chicago Bears Champions Of Western Loop

Pro Grid Machine Guided By Quartet Of Standout Stars

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Their names were Luckman, Sprinkle, Kavanaugh and Turner. Now they call them Casares, Brown, Hill and Meadows. But they're still the Chicago Bears and once again they're champions of the Western Conference in the National Football League.

It took them 10 years, six of them in the runner-up slot, to make it back into the sun, but you don't rebound quick in the tough pro loop. Ask the Detroit Lions. After three title years, the Lions slumped to the cellar in '55. Then this season they roared back all the way—until Sunday when the Bears slapped them down 38-21 in the crucial contest at Wrigley Field.

The Chicago triumph followed Saturday's 21-7 New York Giant victory over Philadelphia that gave the Bears the Eastern crown. The Bears and Giants meet Dec. 30 at Yankee Stadium for the world championship.

In other games Sunday, Pittsburgh stunned Washington 23-0; the Chicago Cardinals defeated Cleveland 24-7; San Francisco rallied to down Baltimore 30-17; and Los Angeles rolled over Green Bay 49-29. That wrapped up NFL action for the season, with the exception of Washington at Baltimore next Sunday.

Sunday the Bears rolled like feared 'Monsters of the Midway,' the glory handle they earned by manhandling the NFL in the early '40s.

Fullback Rick Casares, the league's leading ground gainer, ran for 190 yards; J. C. Caroline again did double duty and scored once while on offense; the Ed Brown-to-Harlon Hill passing combination clicked for another Chicago score; George Blanda booted (a field goal and five conversions) as Blanda always does, and that was all.

The Lions, severely maimed when quarterback Bobby Layne was knocked out of action in the second period, were only a shadow of the team that had beaten the Bears 42-10 two weeks ago.

Casares went 68 yards in one touchdown burst for a 10-7 Bear lead in the second period and the Chicagoans held it the rest of the way. It was 17-7 at halftime, they swapped TDs in the third quarter, and Bears won going away in the final period with two touchdowns to the Lions' one.

Harry Gilmer, Layne's replacement, tossed for two Lion scores, but the Detroit club was bitter over the loss of Layne. Chicago defensive end Ed Meadows collided with Bobby, and the Lions conceded after the game that Meadows collided with Bobby, and the that Meadows deliberately tried to disable Layne. Detroit owner Edwin J. Anderson and coach Buddy Parker said they would ask to have Meadows barred from the sport.

Meadows denied he was out to get Layne. "There was nothing dirty about the play," he said.

The Detroit quarterback was released after a checkup at a hospital.

The game got plenty rough at several stages and Meadows and ever into Champaign, Illinois, to meet Illinois' unbeaten Big Ten favorites.

If the string, now standing at 60, still is intact, then there's Western Kentucky's racehorse "5" Wednesday in Louisville.

Both the Illini, seventh-rated in the last Associated Press poll, and Western, ranked 12th, take a lot of beating in their own backyards.

The Dons, NCAA champions the last two years but something less than invincible since Bill Russell and K. C. Jones departed, learned what it feels like to lose over the weekend—but it was a loss that didn't count.

Russell, Jones and others of the U. S. Olympic championship basketball team spilled the Dons 83-52 in the windup of an invitation tournament at Chicago Stadium Saturday night. Since the Olympians are no longer collegians, the game didn't affect the record.

Illinois, warming up for San Francisco, made Loyola of New Orleans its third straight victim 83-71 Saturday.

Benny Guzman, San Jose State halfback, was a pole vaulter and sprinter at San Jose high.

'There'll Be Changes Made' Is Brown's New Theme Song

CLEVELAND (AP) — Paul E. Brown, a bit disconsolate over his second losing season in 27 years or football coaching, today was using as his theme song "There'll be Some Changes Made."

After 10 straight years of individual titles, and seven league championships in the professional ranks the haughty Browns sported a 5-7 record and a fourth place tie in the Eastern Division of the National Football League.

The Chicago Cardinals, victims of the Browns 12 straight times up to this disastrous campaign, kept the Browns away from a 6-6 season yesterday as they plastered a 24-7 defeat on the Clevelanders.

The 5-7 record gave Brown, known for years as "Precision Paul" and the "miracle man," a total of 249 victories, 48 losses and 10 ties for his colorful career at Severn Prep, Massillon High School, Ohio State, Great Lakes Naval Station and the Browns.

Gazing back today at the season, in which quarterbacking was the big problem, Brown said:

"We'll just have to appraise our quarterbacking once more. Yesterday's outcome hinged on interceptions, and we have a problem to correct along that line. For the first time we went without Otto Graham, and then our No. 1 and 2 men, George Ratterman and

Russell To Sign Cletics Contract

BOSTON (AP) — Big Bill Russell, All America center from San Francisco and Olympic basketball star, will sign a professional contract with the Boston Celtics.

Boston owner Walter Brown disclosed Sunday night that the 6-10 star had agreed to terms. Russell, who led the U. S. team to victory at Melbourne after three years of stardom at San Francisco, confirmed the deal.

The Celtics are currently riding in first place in the Eastern Division of the National Basketball Assn. Russell is expected to make his debut Wednesday night against the New York Knickerbockers.

Detroit's Gil Mains were banished for fighting.

Casares cracked the all-time individual season rushing mark by a Bear. He totaled 1,126 for 12 games to top Beattie Feathers' 1,004, set in 1934.

A league rushing record fell at Los Angeles where Ram halfback Tom Wilson gained 223 yards in 23 carries. Gene Roberts of the Giants had 218 in 1950 for the previous single game record. The Rams pulled Green Bay down in a last-place tie in the West.

Several hundred miles to the north, San Francisco's 49ers shoved across 20 points in the final period to whip Baltimore. Joe Arenas cracked a 17-17 tie with a 68-yard touchdown that clinched third-place in the West for Frisco. The Colts can do no better than fourth.

The Chicago Cards clinched at least a tie for second in the East as Lamar McHan scored twice.

The Browns wound up in a fourth place tie with Pittsburgh's Steelers. The Pitt team, led by quarterback Ted Marchibroda's passing, contained Washington all the way.

The Redskins, who can still tie for second, lost their chance for the Eastern title when the Giants whipped last-place Philadelphia on Saturday.

Magadore Coach Joins Star Staff

YOUNGSTOWN (AP) — Ned Novell of Magadore, whose football team won a game 57-0 by passing on every play, will help coach the Northern squad in the annual North-South Ohio All-Star High School football game at Canton, Aug. 16.

He was named an assistant yesterday by Tom Carey, head coach of the Northern squad. Carey also selected Lou Meszaros of Toledo Waite and Jack Llewellyn of Bay Village to help him.

As head coach, Carey was permitted to choose one of his players. He picked fullback Bill Clark of Youngstown East.

Pirates Drop Cage Contest To Centralia

In a non-league cage contest played Saturday night, the Pirates of Pickaway Township suffered a 102-55 defeat at the hands of a sharpshooting Centralia High School team. The battle was played on the winners' floor.

Trailing 26 to 8 after one period of play, the Pirates were unable to get organized to stop the Centralia onslaught. The winners were ahead 52-20 at halftime and 72-36 at the end of the three-quarter mark.

Dave Smith paced the Pirates scoring effort with 20 points. Teammate Baldoser registered 13.

Centralia's point making was led by Shaw who counted 24 and Clever who hit for 21.

Centralia won the reserve contest, 56 to 37.

Warriors Showing Belated Strength

NEW YORK (AP) — The Philadelphia Warriors today are in contention for the Eastern Division lead in the National Basketball Assn.

Paced by the usual prolific scoring of Paul Arizin and Neil Johnson, the Warriors moved into undisputed possession of second place Sunday night by knocking off the front-running Boston Celtics, 116-104.

In other games, the Minneapolis Lakers moved up on the Rochester Royals, Western leaders, by edging them 101-97; Fort Wayne's Pistons tagged the New York Knickerbockers with an 84-80 defeat, and Syracuse eased past the Hawks of St. Louis 101-91.

Scott Frost Again Voted As Harness Horse Of Year

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Scott Frost, great four-year-old trotter owned by Saul Camp of Shafter, Calif., today repeated as the harness horse of the year.

Scott Frost polled 60 first places from a panel of 95 turf writers, in a ballot sponsored by the U. S. Trotting Assn., to become the first horse ever to win the laurels twice in a row. The pacer Good Time is the only previous double winner, but there was a four-year spread (1949-1953) between his awards.

With points awarded on a 10-7-5-3-1 basis in the poll, Scott Frost picked up five times as many top votes as runner-up Adios Harry, and almost doubled the aged pacer star's point total, 783 to 417.

Torpid, the two-year-old pacer sensation, was third with 11 first place votes and 322 points. Dottie's Pick, aged pacing mare, was fourth with 287 points, and Good Counsel, two-year-old pacing filly, fifth with 222. Each of the latter had three top place votes.

Unbeaten List Is Cut To 5

Ohio College Cagers Tasting Of Defeat

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's list of unbeaten basketball teams was down to five today after last week's action saw seven Buckeye units suffer their first setbacks.

The big surprise was Cincinnati's 65-53 pasting of Dayton Saturday after the Flyers had played their best game of the season Wednesday in a two-point decision over Miami.

The loss to Dayton was the first for the veteran Redskins. Capital, Baldwin-Wallace, Xavier, Akron, Heidelberg and Steubenville also were first-time losers.

Still unbeaten and leading the select group is Defiance with a 6-0 mark. Muskingum and Ohio U. follow with 4-0 records while Ohio State and Mt. Union are 3-0.

Defiance is idle this week but Mt. Union plays twice on the road, Muskingum goes against Youngstown Wednesday and Ohio State resumes activity Saturday against Tulane. The game will be televised regionally.

Ohio University travels to Johnson City, Tenn., for a weekend tournament with Tennessee State, Marshall and Austin Peay.

In the big ones last week, unbeaten Wheaton snapped Akron's three-game winning streak, 72-65; Steubenville dropped a 72-71 thriller to Central State; Muskingum edged Capital 81-80 to grab the Ohio Conference lead and Miami captured its third straight Mid-American Conference victory by lacing Toledo, 81-64.

Xavier dropped a double-overtime struggle to Wichita and ran into another defeat at the hands of powerful SMU Saturday.

Ohio teams won 11 and lost 9 against out-of-state opponents last week, running their mark to 33 victories against 23 setbacks in interstate play with a scoring edge of 4,402 to 4,034.

Bowling Green's ambitious Falcons pushed their record to 5-1 with victories over Detroit and DePaul. The Falcons move out on another road trip after a home game against Kent State Monday.

The conference tussle will be followed by another league encounter at Western Michigan Wednesday and then games Friday and Saturday at Brigham Young.

The 1956 football tie between

Kid Cuppers May Get Nod 'Down Under'

PERTH, Australia (AP) — U. S. Davis Cup Captain Bill Talbert, well aware Vic Seixas and Herb Flam figure at best as outsiders against the likes of Aussies Lew Hoad and Ken Rosewall, today was toying with the idea of using his 'kid cuppers' against Australia in the challenge round.

As the team prepared to fly to Adelaide to begin practice for the cup final beginning Dec. 26, Talbert said he might turn to 19-year-old Mike Green of Miami and Sammy Giammalva of Houston unless Seixas and Flam prove to him in workouts they have a chance to win.

"We have to start developing sometime," Talbert said, "and this might be the year."

The 33-year-old Seixas, in the midst of his sixth Davis Cup campaign, played exceptionally well as the Americans defeated India 4-1 in the interzone final.

Flam, 28, won his singles match but looked below top form.

Green, considered America's best bet for the future, has had little international experience and showed it while substituting for Seixas after the series with India had been clinched. He lost in straight sets to Krishnan.

Giammalva, 22, had more success-teaming with Seixas in the clinching doubles match, then defeating Kumar in the last singles.

Tarheel College Handed Big Fine

RALEIGH, N. C. (AP) — North Carolina State College has been fined $5,000 and barred from recruiting any prospective basketball players for one year.

The Atlantic Coast Conference levied the penalty Sunday, charging that State had used illegal methods to recruit Jackie Moreland, a star from Minden, La.

ACC Commissioner James Weaver said the fine would be repealed if Moreland stays at State "without athletic eligibility and un-til his present scholarship."

Sokolsky's These Days

His effort to dump Nixon would ordinarily have resulted in dismissal and oblivion, but not for Stassen who has apparently been forgiven an unforgivable political sin, namely to propose a double-cross and to be thwarted in its consummation. So, Stassen also functions in foreign affairs specializing in disarmament at a time when there is none.

The elimination of Herbert Hoover, Jr., from the State Department is a victory for Stassen, a defeat for Dulles, a victory for Jackson, but what does it really mean? It hardly has more meaning than a lot of motions, gestures, postures while the course of events flows on and John Foster Dulles flies to conferences. But who makes policy? Perhaps Senator Hubert Humphrey may discover if he pursues his investigation, or there may be nothing to discover except that with so many cooks at the pot, the broth gets somewhat sour at times. This certainly is true about the Suez situation which continues to remain complicated and may only be saved by the pile of dead bodies on the streets of Budapest; in a word, by the satellite revolution against Soviet tyranny.

Tigers To Meet Groveport Five Tuesday Night

The Circleville Tiger cage squad will be looking for its second victory in a row Tuesday night when Groveport travels here for a battle in the E. Mill St. gym.

After registering win number one of the season Friday night against Washington C. H., the Tigers will be seeking to even their record at two wins and two losses.

In their first two contests of the season, the CHS cagers were edged by Athens, 60 to 54, and by Columbus Aquinas, 55 to 53.

Coach Red Courtney will probably stick with the same lineup that started the first three contests of the season.

THE STARTING five against Washington C. H. was as follows: Bill Johnson and Bob Fraser, guards; Jim Pacher, center; and Mike Hosler and Tom Krinn, forwards.

Coach Courtney will also have Nelson Kelley, John Davis, John Wright, and Fred Sins available for replacement duty.

Dick Banks, the only returning Tiger letterman this year, is still limping from a broken leg suffered during the past football season. If the fractured bone mends properly, the versatile CHS athlete should be back in action following the Christmas holidays.

Six County Games Set Tuesday Night

Five Pickaway County league basketball games are scheduled for Tuesday night.

In another battle slated for the same evening, the Pickaway Pirates travel to Stoutsville for a non-league contest.

The Tuesday night league meetings are as follows:

Salt Creek at Williamsport; New Holland at Walnut; Scioto at Monroe; Jackson at Ashville; and Atlanta at Darby.

Patterson Pilot Awarded Honor

CHICAGO (AP)—Constantine (Gus) D'Amato, who directed Floyd Patterson to the world heavyweight championship in just 32 pro bouts, today was named boxing's "manager of the year" by the Chicago Boxing Writers Assn.

D'Amato, whose Gramercy Gym, in New York's lower Manhattan, was haunted by Patterson when he was only 14, saw his protegee knock out Archie Moore here Nov. 30 to win Rocky Marciano's title. The Chicago writers named Patterson "boxer of the year."
